

2010 Oregon Listing Results

Paul T. Sullivan, 4470 SW Murray Blvd. #26, Beaverton, OR

A big “Thank You” to the nearly 100 people who sent in their listing results this year. “Welcome” to the 10 new people who have joined us for the first time. To those who have stopped reporting, I say, “We miss you; it would be good to hear from you again.” To those who have passed on, we remember the fine times we had in the field together. We shared the joy of new sightings and familiar birds seen again in new settings.

If you lost your lists, or don’t have time to count up your sightings just now, I hope you can gather your stuff by this time next year. We’d enjoy hearing from you.

Some folks only keep a state list. Others only keep a local list: yard, circle, county, or a few neighboring counties. Others strive to cover the state. Some keep a list each year, others only a life list. We welcome them all.

Some former participants have stopped reporting, and their significant totals have been carried forward to give context to the more recent reports. Others have asked that their earlier numbers not be carried forward. A goodly number of bird enthusiasts do not keep lists. All of that is fine. Participation is voluntary – for the fun of it.

I have heard, and am sensitive to, the voices that speak in strong negative tones about listing. The complaint is that listers do not respect birds or other birders. I think that complaint is unnecessary. There are abrasive people in all avenues of life, and birding is no different. Listing is simply keeping track of what one has seen. Many people enjoy it, and it has led them to discover much that we know about birds. Let those who enjoy listing continue to enjoy this wonderful hobby.

I hope that by publishing these results, we can provide a timely picture how many birds can be found around our wonderful state of Oregon, and who has seen them.

Good birding, everyone!

Notable milestones for 2010 include:

Statewide listing:

Jeff Gilligan set a new Oregon state life list record of 488. Another 71 birders also added to their state lists.

Five birders passed the threshold of a state life list of 400 species: Chuck Gates, Anne Heyerly, Mark Nikas, Bob Stites, and David Smith. Congratulations to you!

Count Circle and Motorless Listing

Here are the results of the new count circle listing idea. The intent is for birders to focus on a 15 mile diameter circle closer to home, which can be visited with less use of time, gas, and travel. The results are presented in alphabetical order by county and observer.

Final note: From time to time, birders drop out of reporting their lists, for various reasons. Their past published reports are a matter of public record. Carrying these numbers forward gives context to results reported today. However, if you would rather not see your past results carried forward in future Listing Results, simply let me know, and I will gladly honor your wishes.
